Former ABOR Director

Why do you want to serve as an ABoR director?

We are in an exciting time in real estate where technology is going to continue to create both opportunities and challenges for industry members. Local, state and federal governments will add to these challenges including regulations on the industry itself and land use related regulations that impact our industry. As someone who is deeply versed in how those regulations can affect development, housing, taxation and affordability, I am excited to bring that experience to the table as we tackle all of the challenges and opportunities that will face us during this term.

What do you do in your personal time? Do you have any hobbies?

I spend most my time either with my wife and two young sons or you can usually find me running on the trail.
